

Imputing Provenance to the Crowd

H. V. Jagadish, University of Michigan

Not every crowd is the same. It can matter which crowd provided a crowd-sourced answer to some question, particularly when different crowd-sourced answers do not match. This talk will suggest ways in which we can think about provenance in the context of a crowd.